

Academic Improvement Scholarship

WONG PUI YAN

Associate of Science in Environmental Studies

Pui Yan made a 0.9 point improvement in her Semester GPA in the past year. She said that one needs to “live in the subject in order to do it well”. She has practically put her theory into practice. In her daily life, she is always conscious of environmental protection, practicing the three R’s – reduce, recycle and reuse. When she joined the College’s Summer Study Tour to Singapore, she made a critical comparison of the environmental policies of the two places. She found her study tour a valuable learning journey as she had brought back useful information and examples to share with classmates. Through this way of living in the subject every day and everywhere, Pui Yan found that she has been strengthening her subject knowledge day by day.
